IMPORTANT NOTICE

To Prizers of the Planters' Protective Association.

Grave present danger is apparent in the matter of the order of tobacco. There are four million pounds in Association Prizing Houses, and nine hundred hogheads in Association Storage Houses; the condition of which indicates that unless great care is exercised loss and trouble are inevitable. To avert such calamity, absolute observance of contract, not to receive tobacco from members not in condition for keeping well is necessary. Wide publicity will be given; this threatened danger through the newspapers and county committees. But notwithstanding that, some member might not comprehend such necessity, if prizers do not decline to receive such tobacco until properly ordered. Such prizers will be held rigidly responsible under their contract and bond for its condition.

Yours truly,
F. G. EWING, Gen. Mgr.

WANT PROWSE IN NASHVILLE

Invited There to Consider a
Proposition for Airship
Factory.

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE.

Made Visit to That City Yesterday to Investigate the Matter.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 9.—Secretary A. P. Foster, of the industrial bureau, has been in correspondence with a number of aviators who have been considering Nashville as a good location for aeroplane factories and schools, among them being C. O. Prowse, of Hopkinsville, Ky., who, it is understood, has been successful with an aeroplane of his own invention and manufacture. Mr. Prowse comes to Nashville to-day to confer with the industrial bureau and to look over a field, where it is proposed to establish a school of aviation in connection with the manufacturing plant. Mr. Prowse states that a level field is wanted for try-out purposes and for use in connection with the school.

Judge Prowse went to Nashville yesterday to look into the matter referred to above.

He is now working on a second machine here and intends to engage in the business of manufacturing aeroplanes. He is enthusiastic over the project and says that he is sure of a large patronage of those who are anxious to learn how to handle airships and that in turn these, and other aviators, would create such a demand for aeroplanes that the factory would be kept going at full tilt all the time filling orders.

In addition, he proposes to send out aviators and machines to give exhibitions all over the country, and he figures that the location of his plant in a town means much in an advertising way outside of the direct patronage brought by those who come to the school or to work in the factory or to buy machines.

Judge Prowse has organized a $20,000 stock company among local business men. Of this amount $5,000 is to be retained as treasury stock and of the balance $14,350 has already been subscribed, leaving a balance of only $650 to be secured.

Judge Prowse will not take any final action in regard to the Nashville proposition until he returns here and consults with his business associates. He had intended locating the factory and school here when he came here in the fall with his machine, but he has had so many inquiries and tentative offers that it is about decided that he will locate in the town which offers the most advantageous terms.

Last February he went to an aviation school near St. Louis, where he studied aeronautics and built his machine. The first model proved a failure, but he has now solved the trouble, and the machine which he built here this winter has been thoroughly tested recently and has made several flights.

Associated with Judge Prowse are Messrs. Lockwood and Stumpf, the latter an expert mechanic, and the former the real aviator of the trio.

NEW MEMBER

Takes Oath On Board Of Control After Governor Approves Bond.

Thomas A. Hall, newly appointed member of the Board of Control of Charitable Institutions, took the oath of office yesterday morning and gave bond in the sum of $25,000, which was approved by the Governor. A meeting of the old board, with Col. Albert Scott, the retiring member, present, was held and some routine business transacted. Mr. Hall at once entered on his duties as a member of the board.—Frankfort News Journal.

BOARD WINS CONTEST

Paducah Must Pay All Money Collected for Schools.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 9.—The Court of Appeals today affirmed the McCracken Circuit Court in the case of the city of Paducah against the Board of Education. The action was by the board to recover the difference between the amounts paid to it and the amounts actually levied and collected for school purposes for the years 1905 to 1909, inclusive. The board secured judgment for $4,595. The court here holds that every dollar levied and collected for school purposes within the legal demands of the Board of Education belongs to the board.

STRUCK BY TIDAL WAVE

Part of City of Cadiz in Spain is Destroyed.

Cadiz, Spain, Feb. 9th.—A tidal wave destroyed a portion of this city, damaging part of the walls of the fortress Tuesday and doing $1,000,000 damage. The tidal wave, which resulted in a terrible storm, rolled in from the sea and did heavy damage to shipping in the harbor as well as to the landworks.

The gigantic wave extended all along the southern coast of Spain, but the bulk of the damage seems to have been done in the immediate vicinity of this port.

Axe Being Put To Appropriation Bills In The Legislature.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 9.—Gov. Woodson Willson, of New Jersey, addressed the joint assembly to-day and was given an enthusiastic greeting.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has declined an invitation to visit the assembly.

William Randolph Hearst will be the next notable. He will come next Wednesday.

Members of both senate and house yesterday took digs at the heavy appropriation bills that have crept into the legislative hopper during the present session. There is every indication that the ax will be used vigorously during the next few days. Administrative leaders are pledged to a retrenchment program, which they declare will be carried out.

In the house the committee on Kentucky statutes reported favorably Representative E. B. Thompson's bill repealing section 2569 A of the Kentucky statutes, which prohibits the shipping of liquor from wet districts of the state into dry territory. The committee stood 5 to 4 on the proposition.

HUBBY'S LETTER

Gave Him Away And His Wife Was Waiting.

Brownsville, Pa., Feb. 8.—Mrs. Eli Cope, wife of a prominent lawyer and politician, horsewhipped Miss Elsie Wilson, a pretty young girl of Pittsburgh, who arrived on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie train to visit Mrs. Cope's husband. The young woman was met at the station by Cope and they went to his office. Cope had gotten rid of Madge Brown his stenographer, for the afternoon by sending her to a matinee.

When Cope and the girl opened the door to the office Mrs. Cope opened fire with a horsewhip on Miss Wilson, giving her a severe beating, and chased the girl until she jumped on a street car and escaped. Mrs. Cope had advance information of the proposed visit from surreptitiously reading a letter found in her husband's pocket.

Cope is about fifty-five years old. He and his wife separated after the affray, he moving his effects to a hotel.

MISS WEST

Miss Jennie West spent several days of this week attending the annual Conference of County Superintendents of the Western Normal School District, embracing about half of the State. Miss West was honored by being elected Secretary.

Tipping Illegal.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Tipping was branded as illegal and un-American by the court here when the partners in a corporation, which bought tipping concessions from hotels and cafes quarrelled over the proceeds. Faith Misplaced.

An Austrian tailor named Reichelt was killed at Paris while testing an automatic parachute cape intended for the use of aviators. Having absolute faith, however, in the efficiency of his invention, Reichelt secretly determined to dispense with the dummy and tried the experiment in person.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly.

No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The great Presidential campaign will soon begin and you will want the news accurately and promptly. The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-A-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first-class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

Positively Rude.

A rich woman from New York angrily declined to become a patron of a Los Angeles hotel when she was informed that her doggie would not be permitted to receive massage treatments in the barber shop. Aren't some hotelkeepers independent!

What Jack London says:—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—

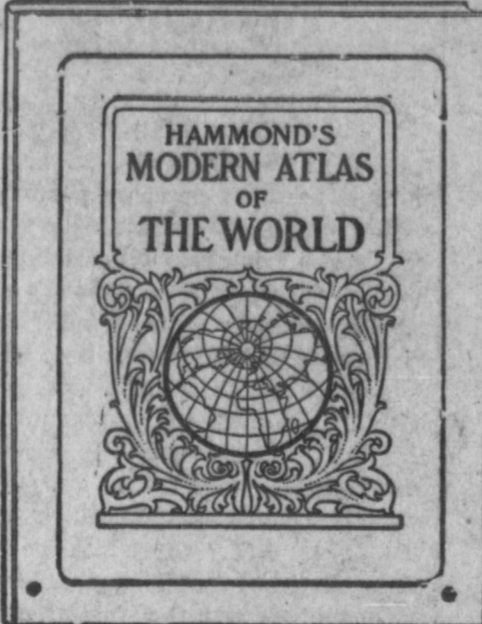

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures, 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $5.00. A splendid gift.

RUMOR OF THEIR OWN MAKE

No Profession, Trade or Industry But Has Its Own Technical Jokes.

There is hardly a profession, trade or industry nowadays that does not have a periodical or organ of its own. And few, indeed, are the publications of this kind that do not devote a weekly or monthly page to the "lighter side" of the branches of human activity to which they are devoted. This technical humor has a twofold interest for the layman, that of the jokes and anecdotes he can appreciate on the one hand and that of those which are incomprehensible to him on the other.

He finds no difficulty, for instance, in the familiar anecdote of the bank president's daughter who, on being informed that her account was overdrawn, severely told the paying teller "not to let it happen again or she would have to speak to papa about it," but he would very likely be unable to see the humor of a banking story whose point lay in some detail of the routine of the clearing house. And yet the latter might be far the better of the two. The fun of the story of the new boy in the machine shop who is told to fetch a bucket of steam from the engine room is obvious enough, but that of an anecdote turning on some technical point of machine construction will appeal only to the initiate. Medicine has its strictly professional anecdotes of sickroom, consulting room and operating room, many of which would be grisly to the layman if he could grasp their meaning; but it has also, for his amusement, its tales of the amazing misinterpretations of medical directions by the unsophisticated patients, chiefly of Irish and German nativity. The church and the law, the arts and the sciences all have this double form of humor. No doubt even the undertaker's shop has its fund of anecdotes. One willingly takes it for granted.

The body of humor keeps close step with progress and development in all the professions, trades and industries. The humorous columns of their organs are there to prove it. No doubt aviation has already developed a fund of technical anecdotes of its own.

IT WAS ON THE WATCHMAN

Thought Belated Husband Needed a Drink After Test Handed Out By Wife.

The new night watchman tiptoed cautiously over the grass, and diving forward, caught the little man by the coat tail and jerked him down to a seat on the lawn. "Come along, me foinse feller," he said. "It's up the river for yours. No housebreakin' goes on my beat."

"Oh, let me alone!" exclaimed the little man peevishly. "I'm not house-breaking. This is my own house, and I'm trying to get in. Mind your own business."

"Likely story," grunted the watchman; "enterin' yer own house be the windy at one o'clock in th' mornin'. Tel that to the Judge."

"I tell you it is my house. My wife locked me out, and I was trying to get in this way when you interfered. The front door is bolted. There's the key, if you want to try. Or you go and ring the front door bell and see what happens."

The watchman, still keeping tight hold of his prey, walked slowly and quietly up to the front door, then suddenly gave the bell a vicious ring. A second floor window opened with a snap.

"William," said a voice so chilly that the watchman shivered down his backbone, "can you say 'six thousand six hundred and sixty-six separate satellites scintillating sparks slowly and with respect to sibilance?'"

The watchman, still grasping the shuddering William, made his way noiselessly to the gate, then whispered to the little man:

"Say, come down to the corner and get a drink to warm you up after that. I guess it's on me!"

Don't Forget to Exercise.

No man of affairs, however important or overdriven, can ever be too busy to take time for exercise, unless he wishes to apply for his long vacation a decade or two earlier than is necessary.

The place where the mummy of the Egyptians should be carried round at regular intervals, with a reminder that he has been dead for 10,000 years, is not at feasts, but in our business offices, workshops, counting houses and studios. There is where men are really killing themselves, instead of in their sports, their luxuries, or even in their vices.

Commercially slave-driving your body and brain may sometimes be a necessity, but the unbiased biologist of the twentieth century is beginning to suspect that the praises of industry, like those of a sacrifice, are sung most loudly and insistently by those in church or state who hope to profit by it—in others!—Woods Hutchinson, in Exercise and Health.

Deceives No One.

"The expectation that you actually can be one thing and appear to be another is doomed to disappointment. Hypocrisy is the saddest fallacy in the world. The disguises of the pretender are so thin that the simplest see through them. What you are speaks so loud as to drown altogether any declarations you may make of what you wish men to think you are. The deceiver deceives no one but himself."—Henry R. Cope.

The introduction of pepsin as a remedial agent effected a complete revolution in the method of restoring to normal the ailments which in the old days were classed in a group as dyspepsia.

If physicians were to observe anniversaries of the discovery of remedies which had proved a blessing to mankind the entire profession would unite in remembering the fiftieth anniversary of the first manufacture of pepsin in this country.

Just half a century ago the late John Carrick, the eminent physiological chemist and the father of physiological products in the United States, made possible a new epoch in American medicine by producing the first pepsin.

Pepsin had been made in a small way in Europe before Mr. Carrick's enterprise caused it to be introduced here, as it was originally suggested by Dr. Corvisart of Paris. The quality was so poor, however, that its use was distinctly limited.

Queer Monument.

A monument erected in the Straglieno cemetery has a very curious history. It is that of an old woman of Genoa, who made a living by selling strings of nuts in the streets. By frugality and industry she succeeded in amassing a small fortune in this way, and then commissioned a well known sculptor of Genoa, Luigi Oregno, to make a life size portrait of her in marble just as she appeared at her pitch in the street. This statue she ordered to be placed in the famous Straglieno cemetery, probably the largest in the world.—World Wide Magazine.

PROFESSOR WAS THE LIMIT

Which Goes to Show That Wives Should Be Careful About Overburdening Husband's Mind.

The people didn't merely look at Professor Branefog—they stared. He knew he was absent minded at times, and he wondered whether he had rubbed his face with boot polish instead of cold cream after he had shaved, or whether he had forgotten to change his dressing gown for his frock coat. But a kind policeman put things right.

"Are you aware, sir, that you are carrying a joint of beef in your arms?" he asked.

"Goodness, me!" said the professor. "I knew something was wrong. My wife told me to put her Sunday hat on the bed, to place this joint in the oven, and to take the baby and the dog out for a walk."

"You've not put the baby in the oven, surely," said the law's guardian. "I put something in it," said Branefog; "but I don't know whether it was the baby or the dog."
With bated breath they hurried to the professor's house. Here, on the bed lay the baby and the dog, but it was just as bad for Branefog. It was his wife's Sunday hat that was in the oven!

CURRENT COMMENT

Opinion of News Compiled and Collected From All Sources.

Must Be Rebuilt.

The McLean College trustees have decided to make a heroic effort to rebuild the Ben Rash Memorial Hall. They have voted however not to do so except on condition that the new structure shall be modern, substantial, well-equipped, free from debt and amply protected against loss by fire. This means that an expenditure on their part of not far from thirty thousand dollars. The church here and elsewhere under whose auspices the college is conducted, will it be believed, supply them with perhaps half of this sum. The rest must come from the town and county, if it shall be secured at all. Not to secure the means of restoring this building is the failure of the institution. Its doors will be shut, its long and honorable career ended. Can the city and county afford this?

The patrons of the school send to this place to be expended upon the buildings and grounds tens of thousands of money accumulated in other counties. Pupils come to McLean College from Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Illinois as well as from all parts of Western Kentucky to spend here at the rate of about $200,000 a year. Men of means, moral worth and civic value of every sort come to reside here because McLean College is here.

How's This?

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a festering and torturing skin disease with its years of misery.

Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you.

We have had experience with many remedies for skin trouble but have never seen such remarkable cures as those from D. D. D. Prescription. Instant relief from the very first application.

We are so confident that D. D. D. will reach your case that it will cost you nothing if the very first full size bottle fails to make good every claim. If you have skin trouble of any kind we certainly advise you to drop in and investigate the merits of D. D. D. anyway. We know that D. D. D. will help you.

L. L. Elgin, Druggist.

No single institution of the county advertises the county more extensively or more favorably than this College. As a center of business, of culture, of religion, can we afford to let these trustees fail to replace the destroyed building of this historic school?

To vote effectively on this question is to make a gift to the College. Promptness in giving will multiply the value of the gift and liberality will multiply its value yet further. Both promptness and liberality are needed now.

How do you vote?

A Missouri lawyer is said to have the best showing for Judge of the Supreme Court.

Next Monday is Lincoln's birthday. It is not a legal holiday in Kentucky and banks will not close.

The press dispatches yesterday reported two men with broken backs, one in Webster and the other in Simpson county. Neither of them was named Winter.

Gov. Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, who was elected by Democratic votes, is a candidate for re-election, but Tennessee Democrats are hardly likely to elect a Republican Governor twice in succession.

The Kentucky Florists in session at Louisville have decided that yellow roses will be the most popular color this year. This may be true with the men, but Sadie says the girls will still prefer American Beauties and Brides.

Hon. R. K. Hart, a prominent politician of Flemingsburg, died Wednesday morning after a lingering illness due to a stroke of paralysis about two years ago. Mr. Hart was fifty-six years of age and during his whole life was a leader in Fleming county politics.

Flour Spar Revival.

With the invasion of Western Kentucky by the Globe Metals, Rare Earths and Oil Exploration company a new era of prosperity is dawning on this section of the state, which, undoubtedly, is about to come into its own. The company is incorporated under the laws of Arizona, with a capital stock of $3,000,000, of which $1,500,000 is common stock, and $1,500,000 is preferred stock. The company is chartered to operate mines, build railroads, tramways, smelters, flour spar mills, and it has leased over 7,000 acres of ore and flour spar land in Crittenden and Livingston counties. As soon as arrangements can be made the company will begin operations on a large scale.

Loosened Up.

The Corydon, Ky., council at a regular meeting repealed the ordinance prohibiting the selling of anything but drugs on Sunday, and will hereafter allow the state statutes to rule this part of the city government.

At Old Stand.

King George and Queen Mary are back from India.

Refused Licenses.

All colored restaurants on West Seventh street have been refused permits by the Mayor and have moved to other localities. These places have always been a source of trouble and have done much to crowd the street, always difficult to keep open when there are crowds in town. The street is very narrow and it was thought best to have the eating houses on some other street.

Eley-Qualls.

Miss Bessie Qualls, the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Qualls, who went from this city to Santa Ana, Cal., last year, was married a few days ago in that city to Mr. Frederick D. Eley. They are now spending their honeymoon at Huntington Beach. After their return will go to housekeeping. Mr. Eley is a successful architect.

Burley Booming.

Tobacco is booming on the Lexington market, notwithstanding the heavy receipts. About 700,000 pounds were sold Tuesday. Several lots went as high as 39c, 28c and 37c, and low grades which have been selling at 2½ and 5 cents, brought 4c, there being few sales below that price.

Given Life Sentence.

William Hester, a negro who claims Christian county as his former home, was convicted of second degree murder in Evansville this week, and given a life sentence in the penitentiary. Hester, it was charged, killed his paramour in an Evansville resort a few months ago.

After the Fire.

The classes of McLean College resumed this week after a few days' interruption, class rooms being filled up temporarily in the two dormitories that escaped the fire. The dining room has been repaired to an extent that permits it to be used.

THESE SIX LETTERS

From New England Women

Prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Restore the Health of Ailing Women.

Boston, Mass.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from hemorrhages (sometimes lasting for weeks), and could get nothing to check them. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) on Tuesday, and the following Saturday morning the hemorrhages stopped. I have taken them regularly ever since and am steadily gaining."

"I certainly think that every one who is troubled as I was should give your Compound Tablets a faithful trial, and they will find relief."—Mrs. GEORGE JURY, 803 Fifth Street, South Boston, Mass.

Letter from Mrs. Julia King, Phoenix, R.I.

Phoenix, R.I.—"I worked steady in the mill from the time I was 12 years old until I had been married a year, and I think that caused my bad feelings. I had soreness in my side near my left hip that went around to my back, and sometimes I would have to lie in bed for two or three days. I was not able to do my housework."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me wonderfully in every way. You may use my letter for the good of others. I am only too glad to do anything within my power to recommend your medicine."—Mrs. JULIA KING, Box 282, Phoenix, R.I.

Letter from Mrs. Etta Donovan, Willimantic, Conn.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk up stairs without stopping on the way. I was all run down in every way."

"I tried three doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said it was no use for me to take anything as nothing would restore me to health again. So I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and by taking seven bottles of the Compound and other treatment you advised, I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. ETTA DONOVAN, 763 Main Street, Willimantic, Conn.

Letter from Mrs. Winfield Dana, Augusta, Me.

Augusta, Me.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured the backache, headache, and the bad pain I had in my right side, and I am perfectly well."—Mrs. WINFIELD DANA, R.F.D. No. 2, Augusta, Me.

Letter from Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Newport, Vt.

Newport, Vt.—"I thank you for the great benefit Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I took eight bottles and it did wonders for me, as I was a nervous wreck when I began taking it. I shall always speak a good word for it to my friends."—Mrs. JOHN A. THOMPSON, Box 3, Newport Center, Vermont.

Letter from Miss Grace Dodds, Bethlehem, N.H.

Bethlehem, N.H.—"By working very hard, sweeping carpets, washing, ironing, lifting heavy baskets of clothes, etc., I got all run down. I was sick in bed every month."

"This last Spring my mother got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and already I feel like another girl. I am regular and do not have the pains that I did, and do not have to go to bed. I will tell all my friends what the Compound is doing for me."—Miss GRACE B. DODDS, Box 133, Bethlehem, N.H.

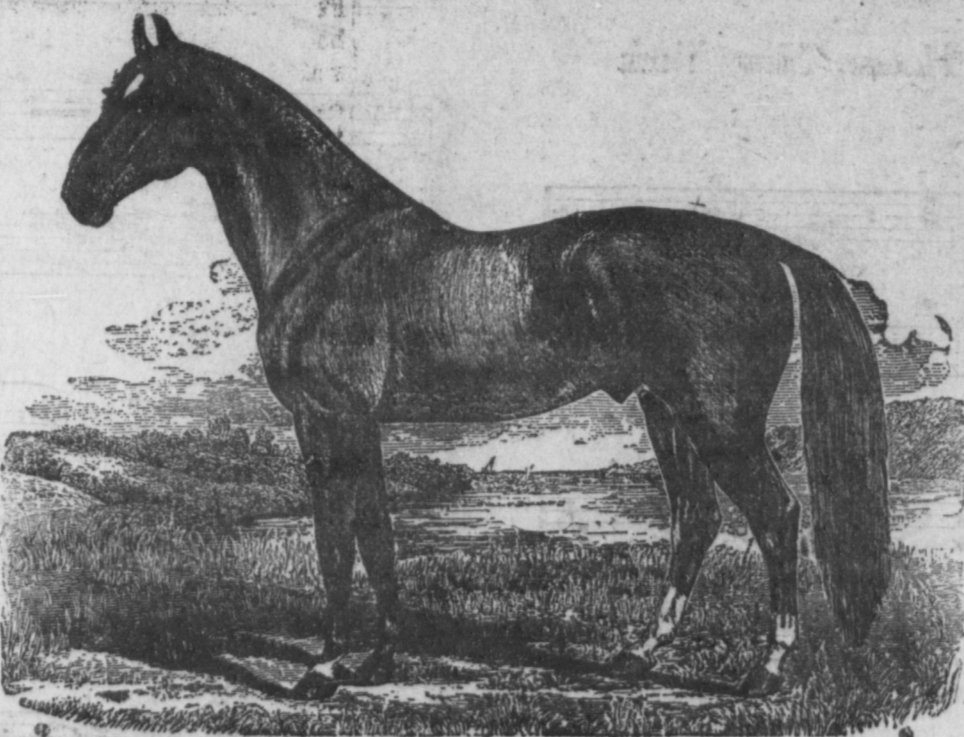

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WOMAN'S PROPOSING YEAR

Men's Capture and Conquest
Considered as 1912 Leap
Year Questions.

It appears in the sober page of history that Margaret, the "Maid of Norway," who—as an absentee landlady—ruled over Scotland from 1286 to 1290, permitted the enactment into law of a statute that permitted women to propose, and fined the unmarried man who should reject the proposal of "ilk maiden layde of bothe high and low estate." The law was to remain in force during the year 1288 and for "ilk years knowne as lepe year." and the recalcitrant bachelor was to be "mulcted in ye sum an pundis or less, as his estate may be." The statute merely anticipated "freak" legislation of a sort frequently introduced since that time in Congress, house of deputies, reichstag or parliament and in many a state legislature. The law makers, having discovered the inherent selfishness of bachelorhood, are determined to "end or mend" the lamentable dereliction.

But whenever the law of man may attempt or achieve in the way of reforming the harmless, necessary bachelor, the Philadelphia Ledger declares, there is a higher natural law of quest and capture which—in the opinion of expert feminologists—the predatory woman rather than the comparatively timid and quiescent man fulfills. Nowadays woman is the pursuer, man is the pursued. The luckless wight who hopes to escape the mantraps and springs of matrimony has need of all his cunning; there is no safety but in retreat; he is no match for the devious cunning of the huntress who has marked the game for her own. Mr. Man may take refuge in splanetic lyrics about the "Female of the Species," or "The Vampire," but that is his sole satisfaction. The woman spins her web and smiles and is demure; she knows that he may fling his caustic epigram about the "serpent's tongue," but—clever arachnoid that she is—she will have him at the last. She can afford to bide her time, and be patient, for whether it be leap year or some other year her net will enmesh him and he will grant whatever she desires, even to the extent of letting her vote or go to Congress or be President.

Disowned Nephew Scores.

New York, Feb. 9.—One of the probable direct results of Edwin Hawley's neglect or purpose to leave no will, it was said here today, would be a windfall of $2,500,000 to a nephew who had incurred the rail magnate's displeasure by wedding a telegraph operator employed by the Southern Pacific Railway.

The nephew's name is Fred Crandell. Since he "broke" with his uncle, he has been employed in humble capacities about New York.

Mr. Beljawsky's comet chose a poor time to visit the earth. There are too many counter attractions just now.

It would take a pretty lively moving picture machine to catch all the details of that Chinese revolution.

A Connecticut minister has started a crusade against rice throwing at weddings. Nothing, however, has been said about flatirons and rolling pins throwing after weddings.

Dr. Pearson, the philanthropist, has decided to quit tobacco after using it for seventy years. It is always wise to stop a thing like that before it becomes a habit.

Eddy Young, a California pugilist, has gone into the ministry. He will find a shrinkage in the gate receipts. It seems as though The Hague peace conference should do a little conferring just about now.

Buffalo Bill has said farewell to the show business forever until next season.

Whereas: It has pleased the Supreme Architect of the Universe to call from labor to eternal refreshments in the Lodge Celestial, our brother William H. Shanklin.

Therefore be it resolved: That in the death of brother Shanklin the Craft have lost a true and worthy brother, the community a good citizen and his children a loving father.

Be it further resolved: That we the members of Hopkinsville Lodge No. 37 Free and Accepted Masons, extend to his family our sincere sympathy in this hour of their bereavement and that the members of Hopkinsville Lodge No. 37 wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Be it further resolved: That as a mark of esteem a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy be sent to his children and a copy be sent to the Hopkinsville New Era and to the Kentuckian for publication.

J. M. Renshaw & Sons, who recently opened a new horse and mule farm at their residence on the Clarksville pike, about one mile south of the city limits, are already doing a nice business. They are also breeders of Shetland ponies and have on hand some extra nice ones for sale at this time.

Renshaw & Sons have been dealing in stock for several years and they know the business in every particular.

Mr. Tom Clark, formerly with Layne & Leavell, of this city, is with the firm. He is also a fine stock man, with an extensive acquaintance.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE GIRL FROM U. S. A."

The musical comedy drama, "The Girl From U. S. A.," which is due at Holland's Opera House Feb. 15, carries the auditor nearly 'round the world, as its scenes are laid in France, Turkey and China. It has an intense love story, a catchy type of comedy, and delightful musical numbers that leave no place for ennui all through its three acts. A capable company of singers and players, who have been receiving flattering press comments in other places visited, will give the piece its performance here. The musical numbers are especially mentioned as affording keen pleasure.

DECREE OF CHINESE THRONE

All Repentant Rebels Are Told They Will Be Forgiven and Their Past Buried.

Says a Chinese Imperial decree quoted in the North China Daily News, following disturbances in Szechuan and Hupei: "All persons who have been pressed bodily into service by the rebels, but who will save themselves by returning at once, shall be permitted to turn a new leaf without being questioned as to their past behavior, be they soldiers or people. Whoever shall serve us by killing rebels or by capturing and binding members of the rebellion party, shall be rewarded regardless of rules, upon bringing them before us. Should any roll call book of the rebels be discovered, let it be instantly burned, and not the least inquiry be made that may cause distress."

"Yin Chang, Yuan Shih-kai, Tsen Chun-huan and Tuan Fang are hereby ordered to make known the throne's virtuous desire by proclaiming it along their routes with a view to carefully condoling with and reassuring the people. They are also to issue proclamations earnestly exhorting the soldiers, the people and others not to listen to false doctrines or to repeat what they have heard said, and not to believe wild rumors and be vainly intimidated."

"After the issue of this decree, you soldiers, people and others will all understand clearly what is right and what is wrong, or, in other words, what will be to your advantage and what will be the reverse. You should each and all be content with your own lot, for you will thereby second our desire in quelling the disturbance and comforting our subjects."

USE FOR OLD BLUEPRINTS

Bleached by a Simple Process, They Furnish Sketch Paper of a Fair Grade.

In the engineering department of every mine office, blueprints will accumulate until the quantity has reached amazing proportions. Some companies keep a record and file of all prints made and at periodical times destroy the old ones. In addition to this, says the Engineering and Mining Journal, at the time of printing, there is sure to be a certain waste due to poor exposures, blotchy paper, etc. A method for turning this waste into a useful article is presented by E. B. Birkenhead, in the American Machinist.

These old or useless prints may be bleached by immersing them in a soda bath containing four ounces of soda to one gallon of water. If it is desired to bleach only a portion of the print, this may be done by painting that part with this solution. By washing the prints in fresh water, after bleaching, any discoloration is prevented. The blank paper thus obtained furnishes a fair grade of sketch paper, and there are numerous other uses to which it could also be put.

Preserve Us From Jealousy.

I have often wondered why the litany did not include a prayer for preservation from jealousy. Undoubtedly of all the terrors that walk by night or by noonday, jealousy is one of the most destructive. Jealousy of a petty kind is less common among women than it used to be, though, strangely enough, it seems to be increasing among men. Some women are jealous of every attribute possessed by others—beauty, social success, wit, charm, or character.

Often, too, there is a certain type who love to think that other women are jealous of her. It is an obsession with her. She may be disagreeable, selfish, conceited, and irritating, yet it never occurs to her to attribute her unpopularity to that cause. Jealousy and jealousy only, she is firmly convinced, lies at the root of the other woman's dislikes. This species of femininity is happily dying out. The modern woman of fascination is as popular with women as with men, and takes no delight in arousing jealousy in another line. She is well aware that popularity with her own sex is an important point to gain.—Chicago Tribune.

Useful.

A breezy western lumber salesman stopped at the Walton for a few days, returning from a trip abroad. In the course of his second evening he had made friends with half a dozen men from other cities.

"Yes, boys," he said, insisting that they take wine, "I can well afford to pay for the bubbles. Why, when I was in Europe I pulled off a little deal that'll net me more than the cost of a thousand trips over the pond."

"You see, I trade principally in white woods free from knots. Of course, pine knots are waste, only good for firewood. But I just made a deal with a Swiss toy factory, and I'll send all the knots and knot holes I—"

"What do they use 'em for?" asked the inquisitive one.

"For holes for wooden horses," came back the answer.—Philadelphia Times.

The Facetious Judge.

A horse dealer complained to a magistrate that some malicious person had cut off his horse's tail, which, as he meant to sell it, would be a great drawback.

"Then," said the magistrate, "you must sell the animal wholesale."

"Wholesale?" replied the other.

"What do you mean? How so?"

"Because you cannot re-tail it," was the reply.

The Skeleton in His Closet

By Stacy E. Baker

(Copyright, 1919, by Associated Literary Press.)

The soul-racking tale poured into the ears of little Ethel Murray could result only in one thing—a missive promptly penned to the profligate Emery Jarvis, assuring him that she had learned all, and asking to be released from the engagement.

"I know of the skeleton in your closet, wrote Ethel (here she applied a dainty bit of cambric to streaming eyes ordinarily as sunshiny and blue as the sky of a June morning). "I am surprised at you! Had you come to me and told me all, I feel that I could have forgiven you—but never, now that I find the truth through other people. I return herewith your ring."

The rest of the letter was a rambling plaint, save on one subject—the engagement existing between these two must be considered past history. That was plain.

For more than a year the daughter of Burgess Murray, the biggest man politically in the community, and Emery Jarvis, a clerk in Glisson's drug store, had been making plans for a future that would embrace them both. Jarvis was an ambitious young fellow, well liked by every one, and seemingly having the best of habits.

Ethel had believed in him thoroughly until the gossiping tongue of old Mrs. Pollet had disclosed certain things that no girl of spirit could tolerate in her fiancé. Therefore the return of the handsome solitaire that she had so proudly worn and the letter to her betrothed asking for her release.

Jarvis read the lines in the seclusion of the little prescription room in the rear of the drug shop and his dark eyes clouded as he vainly strove to solve the cause of the maiden's anger. "She couldn't be cross about a little thing like this," he mused. "I wonder how she found it out, anyway?"

That evening Jarvis called up the girl. She was not at home. During the ensuing week he made several other fruitless attempts to see her.

It was after this that the ire of the youth assumed significant proportions. "My dear Ethel," wrote Jarvis, "I know, and you have not been at home."

"I know of the Skeleton in Your Closet," wrote Ethel.

Patience has ceased to be the proverbial virtue, and I shall not try to see you again. I am done. I release you from the engagement, as you ask. I also acknowledge the skeleton in my closet, but why a normal-minded maid should take this amiss is beyond me. If anything, my dear, I am rather proud of it."

Ethel positively stormed when she read this communication. She clinched her fists until the nails bit cruelly into the tender flesh and angrily tossed her little blonde head.

"I shall never, never have anything more to do with men," she complained bitterly. "The very brazenness of that Emery Jarvis—to say that a 'normal-minded' girl shouldn't take such things amiss. I'm sure no girl with common sense would allow her fiancé to act in that scandalous manner. Anyway, I'm glad it's all over." To prove this, Ethel burst into convulsive sobs and hid a flushed and tear-wet face in a convenient pillow.

Weeks passed, but the two erstwhile lovers seemed hopelessly estranged. Ethel made no attempt to save the wound caused by her letter, nor did Jarvis try to explain away the misunderstanding.

Gradually the gossips in the little town—and there were many—grew accustomed to the new order of things, and everybody ceased to interest themselves in the affairs of the young couple.

It was a month after this that old Pollet (he was a portly butcher, owning the meat shop next to the drug emporium) ventured to incorporate something of a remark that caught the youth's puzzled interest.

"What was that?" demanded Jarvis, ears metaphorically a-crank. "Just repeat that last sentence."

"I said," came from the butcher, "that that there book I've been reading—'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde'—reminds me of your doings." He poked a pudgy forefinger playfully into the ribs of the youth.

"You'll have to be more explicit," snapped the drug clerk. "I can't understand. What are you driving at?" "Can't understand, eh?" commented the other, sourly. He was angry at the tone of the lad. "Well, I guess I can put it plainer, all right. I mean that you tried to play double just like that Jekyll-Hyde fellow did. Every evening after you called on the girl you was engaged to, you went straight to the house of old Doc. Blyly to see his daughter. My wife she seen you do it time and again, she did."

The dull red stained the face of the angry butcher. "She's the one that put a crimp in you, too. Ethel Murray is too fine a girl to be galavanting around with a young fellow that she thinks thinks a heap of her, and all the while he don't, but is making her out a fool by sneaking away from her house to call on another girl."

"So it was your wife that caused this trouble between Ethel and me, was it? Pity she can't learn to attend to her own affairs, isn't it?"

The butcher, his mind relieved, stamped heavily out of the drug store, but he left a knowing youth behind him. Mrs. Pollet was a gossip monger of some notoriety in the community. She resided just opposite the Blyly home, and now that the fate meat man had given him his cue, Jarvis could understand many things.

That evening, his heavy jaws set firmly and his broad shoulders thrown defiantly back, the drug clerk mounted the steps to the Murray home and rang the bell.

Ethel answered the summons. An angry flush dotted her cheeks when she saw who her visitor was, but Emery ignored these trouble signs, and pushed by her and into the familiar parlor.

"I am here to explain," began Jarvis. "Mrs. Pollet's loquacious husband has just told things, and I think I understand."

"I don't care for explanation," interrupted little Miss Murray formally. "Nevertheless," persisted Jarvis, patiently, "you are about to receive them."

"Listen, dear, I have never called on Millie Blyly in my life—let alone after I left here. When you referred to the skeleton in my closet, I took the phrase literally. There is a skeleton in my closet—a six-foot skeleton of a man that Dr. Blyly loaned me to aid me in my studies, because—well, I'm studying medicine with him, you see. I don't want to be a drug clerk all my life. I—"

But here his late fiancée, face asmile, interrupted his sentence in a very pleasing way.

FASHIONS IN WEST AFRICA

Natives Used the Telegraph Wires for Necklaces and the White China Insulators for Earrings.

The aesthetic and decorative uses to which barbarians will turn objects which to civilized races are things of the humblest utility are amusingly illustrated by this "fashion note" from West Africa:

For some time the officials of the German colony in Southwest Africa noticed that the telephone wires and other accessories of the electrical plant disappeared as by magic immediately after they had been put up. The most diligent inquiries remained fruitless.

From other parts of the German predilections for articles of strange predilections for articles of German commerce, as, for example, rubber heels, garters, buckles, and so forth, things which the natives of those countries do not generally use.

The governor of the colony gave an entertainment one year in honor of the emperor's birthday, and invited the chiefs of the different tribes to it. What was his surprise when he saw these native gentlemen appear with his stolen telegraph wire twisted round their illustrious necks. The higher the dignity the more rings of the wire were round the neck.

Inquiries were soon started in the outlying villages and it came to light that the white china insulators of the telegraph poles had become earrings. A young lady of the highest distinction in native society wore a rubber heel hanging from her nose, and a young man who was a well-known dandy wore dangling from his ears a pair of beautiful pink silk garters.

Financier by Inheritance.

Joseph Morgan, J. P. Morgan's paternal grandfather, fought in Washington's army until the Revolution closed, and then settled down to farming near the village of Hartford. He made money enough to invest it in stage lines and eventually rose to the control of the chief roads of transportation in the state. Hartford, during the first quarter of the nineteenth century, had a great prosperity as the center of long-distance traffic, the main line of stage from New York to Boston passing through the city. Hartford also held the key to the trade of the Connecticut River valley, northward nearly, or quite, to the border of Canada. Innumerable taverns were sprinkled along the countryside, and Joseph Morgan also dipped into this thriving business. Later he opened a large hotel in Hartford, the City hotel, and soon afterward began to figure as a capitalist in connection with the Aetna Fire Insurance company of that city. From the Life Story of J. Pierpont Morgan in the Metropolitan Magazine.

Runaway Comes Back.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 9.—Morris Smith, who ran away from his home here twenty years ago and was not heard of in many years, is back today for a visit to the cottage occupied by his old mother, Mrs. Henry Smith. Speculation in Southern ore and mineral lands, Smith says, has yielded him $2,000,000 in the past ten years.

"I came home to tell my old mother," said Smith to friends who greeted him on his return, "that she can have a private car whenever she wishes to travel and the very best there is in the world."

Smith went to Kentucky when he left this city and became a miner, drifted to California, thence to Y and back to the United States, where he took up Nevada claims, and is going to Georgia.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 9.—Having eradicated almost all of the scatus from the sheep of this State, it is discovered that the foot rot, a much worse disease, is causing havoc with the flocks. Dr. A. J. Payne made a report to Commissioner of Agriculture Newman that there are 7,000 sheep infected with foot rot in Kentucky.

Secured for Weed by Trigg County Farmer.

Mr. C. H. Faulkner, a well known Trigg county farmer of near Caledonia, brought a portion of his crop of tobacco to this market this week and sold it at 10 cents round. Mr. Faulkner raised about 20,000 pounds, but has disposed of only about 5,000 pounds, this being his first delivery.

Posses were still scouring the wooded valleys across the Mississippi river from Memphis, but no arrests had been reported up to noon.

The names of the defendants are still kept a secret by United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller. He said today the government hoped to have in custody all the men by the time the arrest of any one of them had become known.
